Some of us can get more words to the gallon of gas than others. Which leads to the quoting of a sentence by Mr. Wright L. Gilbert, of Bloomfield, N. J.: "Having been nominated by your Nominating Committee (consisting of three Shareholders) duly appointed by your President pursuant to section six (6), paragraph one (1) of your By-Laws as Candidate for the office of Vice-president of your association, I desire to say to our Shareholders in soliciting their support to my candidacy and election of the Vice-Presidency of our association that I was one of the charter members of the same and was originally elected a Director of your association at the suggestion of our late lamented and devoted President Elias G. Heller, to whose name and personality largely belong the credit and honor of the founding and growth of our association and its financial success and I co-operating with him and my associates on the Board of Directors for the last thirty-two (32) years (having been elected continuously during that time) and now senior member of the Board, have endeavored and believe I have filled the office as one of your Directors conscientiously and loyal to the conservation and financial profit and growth of the Woodside Building & Loan Association of which each Shareholder can justly feel safe and proud to be a mem-

THE MAD, MAD WAGS.

Sir: It was this way; we were devouring some frankfurters, when the lad from Syracuse remarked, "These taste as though they were seasoned with Scotch whiskey," and quickernel I volleyed with, "Perhaps they're golf links."

Print paper is supposed to be expensive, yet one cannot take eriously the complaints of the publishers. Thus does the Evening Telegram crystallize the baseball race: "As there will be only three games in three days there is no chance of the series resulting in an even break unless one of the games ends in a tie. Therefore it is highly probable that one or the other contender will obtain a decisive verdict. The club that wins two games out of the three will be a pretty safe wager for the flag. If the Phils take two games they will be a topheavy favorite in view of the fact that the Dodgers will have to meet the Giants in four games, beginning next Monday, and unless they have a good lead at that time their

Ballade of the Law-Abiding

Vers Libre, with its babble and bray, On Poesy's scutcheon's a blight;

We turn from its frail feet of clay

To gaze toward empyreal height

Where the Muse stands, all ready for flight,

In shackles and fetters, but crowned,

And we hear, in her measures of might, The thrill of melodious sound.

Law governs. The stars may not stray

From the paths of their radiance bright;

The tides in their rhythm obey

The leash of the moon through the night.

And Order her slaves will requite;

We hear, with an ear to the ground, The harmonized spheres that recite

The thrill of melodious sound.

No cadences ripple or sway

In the Julienne prose of the wight

Who sits in fine frenzy today. His lawless, lax lines to indite.

But triumphant, all pinions despite, Rhyme-gyved, meter-chained,-yet unbound,-

Elusive as pixy or sprite,

The thrill of melodious sound.

L'ENVOI:

Sir Quintus, you're certainly right.

In shackles and fetters is found That subtlest and finest delight,

The thrill of melodious sound.

There is a movement in Chicago to change the name of Clark atreet to Broadway. One citizen said, "Who's Clark?" "Well," another came back, "Whothel is Broad?" But Broadway was named not for Mr. Broad. New York is a slangy town, and Broadway got its name from the fact that it is the favorite thorough-

Mr. Kalogeropoulos, new Greek Premier, when asked whether he was on the side of the Allies or not, replied: -"I have smoked French tebacco for forty-five years."- N. Y. Herald, Sept. 22, 1914.

However, if Mr. Kelogeropoulos had smoked the eigerettes of the he would have felt quite as hitter toward the Central Powers. I am a Socialist, but when it comes to government tobacen monopolies I confess to some misgivings. French and Austrian organettes are correct according to Marx, but I much prefer the smokes of Prussia, where private enterprise has plenty of elbow room. And what a calamity a United States tobacco monopoly would be, with Uncle Joe Cannon dictating the culor of her cigara!

VACATION DAYS.

THE INEVITABLE STRANGER.

We may before a spot that draws all pilgrims. For north in that wide-flung scatter of islands in the bay A kappy throng laughed and talked and asked advice.

Scotch caution ruled his heart.

Yet when the others passed on to enter,

He threw repression to the fresh winds that swept above.
